Please note, Chris, that Canticle requires two accompanists (4 hands), and is pretty sophisticated. I hope this presents no problem.

Tennessee All-State Women's Chorale Repertoire 2014

Meg Frazier, conductor

O aula nobilis (William Mathias) SSAA with piano duet, 3 trumpets, timpani, Oxford ISBN 9780193374416

Cantate Domino (Pitoni/Machan) SSAA a cappella, Alliance (in Wisconsin) AP 1752

Sing a New Song (Michael Mendoza) SSAA a cappella, Alliance (in Houston) AMP 0131

Ave Maria (Guy Forbes) SSAA a cappella, Alliance (in Houston) AMP 0671

Ave Maria (David Macintyre) SSSAA divisi a cappella, Cypress CP 1024

Eu e voce (J. Edmund Hughes) SSA a cappella, Santa Barbara SBMP 710

It takes a village (Joan Szymko) SSAA with African percussion, Santa Barbara SBMP 328

The Macintyre is seven parts for most of the piece; we would need to ensure even voicing (or, even better, fewer top sopranos with the other voices pretty even numbers-wise).

Percussion for the Szymko would be at least one large tall drum and some shakers but could be more, depending on what you have available. If the timpanist is flexible and could be the drummer, perhaps some choir members could cover the other percussion instruments—I'll give them patterns/instructions.
